

RAINFALL DIARY

How much rain is really falling when you watch a heavy shower through the window of your home? What about when it is a light shower? Download and print this chart to record the results from your rain gauge and study your findings.

Location _____ Year _____

Date	January	February	March	April	May	June	July	August	September	October	November	December
1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28
29
30
31
Total rain

Enter rainfall for the preceding 24 hours. You should try to record your readings at the same time every day.

Why not send us your findings via www.nwlcommunityportal.co.uk.

www.nwl.co.uk/rainwise

